Virtual Job Fair to be Held May 25

Gloucester County, Virginia Government has partnered with several other agencies to launch its first virtual job fair, "Let's Get Back to Work, Middle Peninsula!" The event will feature large employers and small businesses and is scheduled for May 25 from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m.

The purpose of the event is for job seekers to meet and connect with top local and regional employers and professionals. Those questioning what employment direction they should take may figure out a career path or a field they want to explore at the event.

"We are hearing more and more frequently that employers are having difficulty filling their open positions," said Gloria Mazzella Williams, Gloucester County's Community Engagement and Public Information Manager. "The job openings are out there, and we are hopeful that this event will provide an opportunity for local businesses and regional employers to connect with qualified candidates. It's a great time to look for a job! Employers are motivated, and the openings are abundant."

The virtual job fair is a joint effort between the County's Community Engagement & Public Information and Economic Development Departments, the Virginia Employment Commission, Virginia Career Works, and the Gloucester County Chamber of Commerce. This event is completely free to participate, for both employers and job seekers.

Job seekers can register for the event by visiting <https://portal.premiervirtual.com/event/register-jobseeker/7798-back-work-middle-peninsula-virtual-fair> and employers can register for the event by visiting <https://portal.premiervirtual.com/event/register-company/7798-back-work-middle-peninsula-virtual-fair>.

The website will open one day prior to the event start date, giving job seekers the opportunity to review company bios and job vacancies, apply for positions, and be prepared to talk to recruiters the day of the event. A chat function will allow job seekers to talk with company recruiters during the event and ask questions about the company and their open positions.

Employers will have the opportunity to talk with multiple job seekers using the chat features; see and act on applications that are posted in real-time, initiate video chats with qualified candidates and more.

For more information about the virtual job fair, call the Community Engagement and Public Information Department at 804-693-5730.
